

Kiddush Ha-Hayyim

(literally, "sanctifying life"), Hebrew term used with regard to the Holocaust to indicate types of Jewish resistance to the Nazis that glorified the value of Jewish life, as opposed to the value of martyrdom. (see also Kiddush Ha-Shem.)