

Lebensraum

(Living space), the term used by the Nazis to denote their supposed need to expand Germany's borders, mostly eastward, and install their world order in the acquired territories.